- Late Summer Insect and Mite Spray – This secondary spray is specifically designed to target those pests and insects that thrive in the later season when temperatures begin to peak.
- Fall Deep Root Feeding – At the end of the growing season your trees and plants need a balanced fertilizer and nutrient injection deep into the root system to promote health and vigor throughout the winter months.

Dormant Oil Treatment – NOW!!!

Many clients are calling our office asking about whether it is too early to start the first treatment in our Plant Health Care Program which is dormant oil application. The answer is NO! Overwintering pests such as aphids, scale, spider mites, and black vine weevils are coming out of dormancy in February and we need to get pre-treatments in place while the infancy stages of these pests allow easy control and treatment.
